Project Safe Send accepting unusable pesticides in July

Agriculture Commissioner Doug Goehring says farmers, ranchers, pesticide dealers and applicators, government agencies, homeowners and members of the general public should bring unusable pesticides to any of the 12 Project Safe Send collections in July.

"Over the past 33 years, thousands of people have brought more than 6.4 million pounds of chemicals to Project Safe Send," Goehring said. "It is a safe, simple and non-regulatory program that helps people safely and legally get rid of unusable pesticides at no charge."

The program accepts old, unusable or banned pesticides, including herbicides, insecticides, rodenticides and fungicides. Project Safe Send is funded through product registration fees paid by pesticide manufacturers.

"Check your storage areas for any unusable pesticides and safely set them aside for Project Safe Send," Goehring said. "If the containers are deteriorating or leaking, pack them in larger containers with absorbent materials. Free heavy-duty plastic bags are available from the North Dakota Department of Agriculture if needed."

People with more than 1,000 pounds of pesticides should pre-register. No other pre-registration is required.

A maximum of 5,000 pounds of pesticides per participant will be accepted.

Each participant is limited to one shuttle.

To ensure Project Safe Send can be utilized by as many North Dakota producers and citizens as possible, pesticide distributors and agronomy centers are limited to 3,000 pounds and one shuttle.

These locations should pre-register if intending to bring in the maximum amount.

To pre-register, obtain plastic bags or for more information, contact Lilliann Johnston at the ND Department of Agriculture at 701-328-2980 or lfjohnston@nd.gov.

The collections will run from 8 a.m. to noon local time at the ND Department of Transportation facilities in the following cities:

- Tuesday, July 8 in Cooperstown: 11351 3rd St. NE
- Wednesday, July 9 in Larimore: 1524 Towner Ave.
- Thursday, July 10 in Devils Lake: 1905 Schwan Ave. NW
- Friday, July 11 in Rugby: 603 1st St. NE
- Monday, July 14 in Minot: 1305 Hwy. 2 Bypass E
- Tuesday, July 15 in Tioga: 425 2nd St. SE
- Wednesday, July 16 in Killdeer: 398 ND-22
- Thursday, July 17 in Dickinson: 1700 3rd Ave. W Ste. 101
- Friday, July 18 in Beulah: 205 Hwy. 49 S
- Monday, July 21 in Bismarck: 218 S Airport Road
- Tuesday, July 22 in Edgeley: 402 7th Ave. E
- Wednesday, July 23 in Valley City: 1524 8th Ave. SW

Safety is always the top priority while examining a storm-damaged irrigation system. (NDSU photo)

Take steps to manage storm damage to irrigation systems

Storms and high winds pose a serious threat to irrigation systems, often resulting in costly damage. Taking informed action can minimize irrigation system downtime and avoid future irrigation delays, according to Laxmi Prasad, NDSU Extension water engineer.

Center pivot irrigation systems are particularly susceptible to a variety of storm-related damages. High winds can flip over an irrigation machine or cause structural collapse on wet or uneven ground. Wind forces may cause towers to become misaligned, leading to drivetrain strain or gear failure.

Prasad warns that electrical components such as control panels and wiring are at risk from lightning strikes and water intrusion.

"Anchors and foundations may shift or fail in softened ground, undermining the system's stability," says Prasad.

Airborne debris during high winds, such as tree limbs and sheet metal, can also damage parts of a center pivot, leading to further mechanical issues.

Examining these potential failures is essential for post-storm inspection and effective recovery.

Safety is always the top priority while examining a storm-damaged center pivot system. Immediately disconnect power to the system and ensure proper grounding. Avoid contact with any part of the system if electrical hazards are suspected, and immediately contact a licensed electrician for advice.

"Also, watch for downed power lines, and be cautious around areas with high water pressure or chemical injection systems," says Prasad.

Once safety is secured, assess and document the damage. Take clear photos and videos from multiple angles before starting any repairs. Review your farm insurance policies to understand what is covered, and promptly contact your insurance agent to begin the claims process.

Begin necessary emergency repairs to prevent further damage, such as securing loose components of the center pivot. For more complex issues, consult your irrigation supplier or service expert. Do not forget to check the grounding of electrical components to prevent hazards. Keep records of all repair-related expenses.
